The John Steyer copy of the EPA website at <http://saveourepa.com/> is really just a copy of our climate change web area. Google has about 40 documents indexed for saveourepa.com, Bing has none.

The search engine is excellent. The form just points to our search engine, which returns results on our own servers. We've never had objections in the past placing EPA search forms on non-epa servers. I just wanted to make you aware.
